DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. This office action is in respond to the amendment filed on May 8, 2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 37-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lacroix et al. (2003/0058216 A1; hereinafter referred to as Lacroix) in view of Ben Ayed (2005/0110778 A1; hereinafter referred to as Ben).

As to claim 37, Lacroix teaches a wireless stylus comprising (figure 1 page 2, paragraphs 0017 and 0019): a means for housing components (haptic feedback interface device, (figure 1, (12)) and page 2, paragraph 0020); a means for processing data (local processor, (figure 1, (110)), said processing means being disposed in said housing means (haptic feedback interface device, (figure 1, (12)) and page 2, paragraph 0020); for wireless communication disposed in said housing means and configured to processing haptic commands (figure 1 and page 2, paragraph 0021) and communicatively coupled to said processing means (figure 1, page2, paragraphs 0017, and 0021-0022); and a means for actuating communicatively coupled to said processing means (local processor, (figure 1, (110)) (figure 1 and page 2, paragraph

Art Unit: 2629

0021), wherein said actuating means (actuator interface, (figure 1, (116)) is configured to produce a haptic sensation under control of said processing means in response to said haptic commands (figure 1, page2, paragraphs 0017 and page 2, paragraph 0021).

Lacroix does not teach ink dispensing for dispensing ink when the stylus is used as a writing instrument with an ink-receiving medium.

However, Ben teaches a wireless handwriting input device includes visual, audio, tactile or mechanical user interface and an ink cartridge for dispensing ink (figures 1-4, page 3, paragraph 0044, page 3, paragraph 0047, page 4, paragraph 0068, page 5, paragraph 0069 and page 5, paragraph 0080).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate Ben's wireless input having an ink cartridge for dispensing ink into Lacroix's input device so as to write and drawing on any surface by sending an information to processor (page 5, paragraph 0080).

As to claim 39, Lacroix teaches a power supply disposed in said housing; wherein said power supply is configured to selectively provide power to said CPU and said actuator (figure 1 and page 3, paragraph 0030).

As to claim 38, Lacroix teaches wherein said means for wireless communication is configured to receive haptic commands from a host computing device and wherein said means for processing is configured to control said means for actuating in response to said haptic commands (figure 1 and page 2, paragraph 0017).

As to claim 39, Lacroix teaches further comprising a power supply disposed in said housing; wherein said power supply is configured to selectively provide power to said CPU and said actuator (figure 1 and page 3, paragraph 0030).

As to claim 40, Lacroix teaches wherein said haptic commands from a host computing device are associated with an input signal received by a host application running on said host computing device (figure 1 and page 2, paragraphs 0021-022).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-14, 16-25, 27-36, 41-44 and 56-61.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 37-40 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 2629

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
